

SEATTLE Packet

Written by UWQB members: Simarya Ahuja, Sasha Fillbrandt, Marcus Hoshino, Annabelle Koopmans, Daniel Lu, Lucas Mansfield, Euan McCubbin, Gavin Morrow, Maia Pryor, Anya Srinivasan Catherine Welch, lləpɔɹɹW nɛW

Edited by: Anya Srinivasan

1. This location coincidentally shares its name with a Salvadorian colloquial term for the Ferruginous Pygmy Owl. An indie band named for this location went viral for their 2021 single Skipping Stones and opened for jazz group The Temptations during a Seattle show. In 1991, a vandal stole a time capsule containing a plaster bust of Elvis Presley from an art piece [emphasize] underneath this road. A 2015 crash on a bridge carrying this road was one of several fatal incidents that led to the shutdown of amphibious tour company Ride the Ducks. The (*) community center named for this road, which at times has been called “an oasis in Seattle’s forgotten desert,” was criticized by local businesses for its 2013 needle exchange program. This road was named after a Chicagoland suburb, a pattern it shares with the nearby Palatine and Evanston Avenues. For 10 points, identify this geomagnetically-named Seattle avenue, which is infamously associated with prostitution.

ANSWER: Aurora Avenue North [accept Aurora Bridge before “carrying this road”; prompt on George Washington Memorial Bridge with “what road does that bridge carry?” before “carrying this road”; prompt on Washington State Route 99 with “what Seattle city road is associated with this stretch of SR99?”]

(“Ave aurora” is a name used for the Ferruginous Pygmy Owl in some instagram posts from El Salvador)

<Lucas>

For 10 points each, answer the following about the Seattle Opera’s productions of “Tosca.”
[10h] In 1969, this General Director of the Seattle Opera purchased the sets used in “Tosca” from Milan’s Sormani workshop.

ANSWER: Glynn Ross

[10m] To keep costs reasonable, the Seattle Opera used this type of scenery, with painted canvas hanging from pipes above the stage. On top of using this scenery, they created the illusion of depth with the “trompe l’oeil” technique.

ANSWER: soft [accept soft scenery]

[10e] The Seattle Opera rented its “soft scenery” to this Canadian province’s opera house for their “Tosca” production. This Canadian province’s capital is at Winnipeg.

ANSWER: Manitoba

<Simarya>

2. In 1992, this Seattle-based company was purchased by a person who would eventually become the richest man in Japan. In Toronto in 2011, a perfect prediction was made about an action taken on behalf of this organization by Matthew Tuigasopo. In one episode of a sketch comedy show, a group of four Caucasian males who perform a signature motion with their hands catch a (*) “fever” related to this organization. Throughout the 2010s, members of this organization were regularly afflicted with “sog” in their elbows. The name of this organization was conceived by a man who was missing for 47 years until his 2023 discovery in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania. In 1995, a man said with regards to this organization: “I don’t believe it! It just continues! My oh my!” For 10 points, what Seattle organization, whose main predecessor moved to Milwaukee in 1970, was created as a result of a lawsuit?

ANSWER: Seattle Mariners

<Anya>

Note to moderator: Do the voice. According to the 1990 United States Census, the city of Seattle was, in 1990, 73.7% non-Hispanic white. For 10 points each:

[10h] Name this group of four Caucasian males who perform a signature motion with their hands in such diverse places as Vancouver, B.C. (“in Canada!”) and Bellevue, Washington (“on the Eastside!”)

ANSWER: The High-Five’n White Guys

[10e] In one sketch, the High-Five’n White Guys visit this Seattle neighborhood, where they cringe at lutefisk, exclaim “Uff Da!”, and are “proud of their Scandinavian heritage”.

ANSWER: Ballard

[10m] The High-Five’n White Guys were featured on this Seattle sketch comedy show that aired on KING from 1984 to 1999. Before independently airing on KCTS-9, Bill Nye The Science Guy was a segment of this sketch comedy show.

ANSWER: Almost Live!

<Anya>

3. In a 1998 game for the Seattle Mariners, one person with this last name became the first MLB catcher in almost 50 years to hit an inside-the-park grand slam. Following a 2026 series against the Cardinals, that same person with this last name was edited on top of then Jeopardy champion Jamie Ding to ironically celebrate a rare occasion in which his odd pinch-hitting decisions worked in the Mariners’ favor. During the 2014 NFC championship, another person with this last name became the first player to throw four interceptions and the game-winning touchdown in a playoff game. That person with this last name would go on to lose the (*) Super Bowl after throwing a goal-line interception to the Patriots’ Malcolm Butler. Another person with this last name stopped a Seattle-wide rollout of Microsoft Copilot for city employees shortly after winning a 2025 election against Bruce Harrell. For 10 points, give the shared last name of the current Mariners manager, a legendary Seahawks quarterback, and the incumbent Mayor of Seattle.

ANSWER: Wilson [accept Dan Wilson, Russell Wilson, or Katie Wilson]

<Lucas>

For 10 points each, answer the following questions about lləqəŋW ɲəW (“Rachel Watt”).

[10h] lləqəŋW ɲəW captained this school's Quizbowl team at the 2020 High School National Championship Tournament. Their team placed seventeenth at the event.

ANSWER: University of Saskatchewan [or USask]

[10e] The University of Saskatchewan is located in this city, the largest in the Canadian province of Saskatchewan.

ANSWER: Saskatoon

[10eh] lləqɔɪW ɲɛW was born in this mining town, located on the border between Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

ANSWER: Flin Flon

[10m] Name the mascot of the University of Saskatchewan, not to be confused with the mascot of the University of Washington.

ANSWER: Howler the Huskie [accept Huskies]

<lləqɔɪW ɲɛW>

4. A coffeehouse partially named for this street is credited with the invention and popularization of the Caffé Medici. The northern terminus of a segment of this street is at a park that contains a baseball field named for the marine Will Stacey. A rooftop bar that was mentioned in the New York Times article “36 Hours in Seattle” is located at the intersection of this street and NE (*) 45th St. The main segment of this street, which was named for an 1890s Addition, is bounded to the south by the Portage Bay waterfront and to the north by a high school whose mascot is the Rough Riders. For 10 points, name this street that is home to the only Insomnia Cookies in U-District, just one block west of the Ave.

ANSWER: NE Brooklyn Ave

<Sasha>

For 10 points each, answer these questions about the history of coffee in Seattle.

[10m] Fuuuuuuck Starbucks! We all know about the whole union-busting thing, but did you know that Starbucks is partly responsible for the relocation of the Supersonics? Name this two-time Starbucks CEO and three-time presidential candidate who sold the Supersonics to Oklahoma-City-based businessmen in 2006.

ANSWER: Howard Schultz

[10e] Starbucks’ main competitor in Seattle for many years was this coffee brand founded in Kent. This brand no longer has retail locations in the United States, but has over 760 locations in Japan.

ANSWER: Tully’s Coffee

[10h] Seattle’s coffee history isn’t limited to corporate chains. This coffeehouse, open from 1967 to 2000, was frequented by chess and go masters, and its name included the U-District avenue it lay on.

ANSWER: The Last Exit on Brooklyn

<Any>

5. The Utah Wetlands and Wolf Tree Nature Area are found in the northern half of this park. This park contains the western of the two “National Recreation Trails” contained within the city of Seattle. An organization which once operated a campus on the site of this park is famous for widely-publicized 2003 and 2011 games of hide-and-seek. That campus was (*) occupied in 1970 by a group of Native Americans, leading to the establishment of the Daybreak Star Indian Cultural Center in this park. This park was named after the lead ship in the first Vancouver expedition. For 10 points, the westernmost point in the city of Seattle is contained in what large Magnolia park?

ANSWER: Discovery Park [prompt on Daybreak Star Indian Cultural Center by asking “what larger park contains that?”; prompt on Fort Lawton by asking “what park is on that site now?”]
<Any>

Seattle is great, but sometimes people leave it. Are they stupid? Probably. For ten points each:
[10e] The Seattle SuperSonics NBA team was uprooted to Oklahoma City in large part due to the actions of this billionaire and then-Seattle resident. Twenty years later he himself left for Florida, likely in response to the new “Millionaire’s tax” passed by the state legislature.

ANSWER: Howard Schultz

[10m] Schultz isn’t the only billionaire to skip town lately. Amazon founder and former CEO Jeff Bezos also moved to Florida, though his stated reason was to be closer to this launch site, from which his company’s New Glenn rockets launch. The first Americans into space were launched from this site, as were most of NASA’s interplanetary space probes.

ANSWER: Cape Canaveral Space Force Station (or Patrick Space Force Base; generously accept Cape Kennedy, though that hasn’t been the official name since 1974; antiprompt on Launch Complex 36 with “what broader site is LC-36 a part of?”; do not accept or prompt on Kennedy Space Center—it’s next door but strictly a different thing)

[10h] Once the largest employer in Washington, Boeing has progressively moved more of its manufacturing out of the Seattle area. The National Labor Relations Board sued them in 2011 after they moved final assembly of the 787 Dreamliner to this state, which had the lowest unionization rate in the country.

ANSWER: South Carolina

<Catherine>

6. One of these buildings in Snohomish county was opened in 2011 and cost $1.8 billion to construct. Issues constructing a tunnel for that one of these buildings was used as a model for potential issues building tunnels as part of other regional projects, including the Link Capitol Hill stop. In 2017, a failure at one of these facilities resulted in King County being fined $361,000. The primary one of these facilities serving the city of Seattle is named (*)
West Point, and is located within Discovery Park; it serves 792,400 people and 113 square miles. These buildings must acquire NDPES permits, which in Seattle are regulated by the Washington Department of Ecology. Flooding of these facilities in rainy weather pose a large public health and environmental risk to citizens of King county. For 10 points, Brightwater, West Point, and South Point are all what type of facility that processes water from around King County and pumps it back into Puget Sound?

ANSWER: wastewater treatment plants (accept sewage treatment plant)

<Annabelle>

Let’s go tidepooling at Alki Beach! For 10 points each:

[10e] Did someone drop their Denny’s in the water? No silly, it’s just the “Fried Egg” species of this animal. These suspension-feeding cnidarians have polyp and medusa life stages.

ANSWER: jellyfish [accept sea jellies]

[10m] Look! Just off Alki's coast lies one of these shallow-water ecosystems that house isopods, shrimp and crabs. These carbon-sequestration hotspots are threatened by trawling and dredging in the Puget Sound.

ANSWER: seagrass beds [or seagrass meadows; accept eelgrass in place of seagrass]

[10h] Ewww! You found the "Gumboot" species of this mollusc, also called the "wandering meatloaf" for its unusual size and meaty appearance. These oval-shaped animals, which make up the class Polyplacophora, are composed of 8 shell plates surrounded by a girdle.

ANSWER: chitons [or sea cradles, coat-of-mail shells, suck-rocks; accept loricates]

<Lucas>

7. Every quarter, multiple people awkwardly ask Beck and their colleagues to be allowed to enter a room in order to see these things. This quarter, an artist has been permitted to enter that room in order to do study drawings of these objects. One of these things is an exact replica of a bronze object that was discovered in 1896 and which now stands in the Delphi Museum. The other is a replica of an object that, despite lacking arms, is considered one of the finest examples of its type, a statue representing a Greek goddess of beauty. For ten points, name these objects, a charioteer and an (*) armless beautiful woman, which are clearly visible in a window on a walk between Parrington and Paccar halls and which constantly cause people to rubberneck into the room that is the natural habitat of UW Classics graduate students. Answer: The statues in the Denny Hall seminar room (Accept answers indicating either The Venus de Milo or the Delphic Charioteer in Denny, or obvious semantic equivalents)

<Beck>

The Seattle Sounders are the first MLS club to win all five possible annual trophies. For 10 points:

[10m] This cup, first incepted in 2019, was the final trophy in the collection. The Sounders won this competition that only includes MLS and Liga MX sides after beating Messi-led Inter Miami 3-0 at home.

ANSWER: Leagues Cup

[10h] The Sounders won this cup in their first year as an MLS club and defended the title two more times. MLS attempted to pull its clubs out of this competition in 2023.

ANSWER: US Open Cup

[10e] In the three-peat run from 2009 to 2011, the US Open Cup final was played twice at the Sounders' home stadium, each time with a different name. Give both names.

ANSWER: Qwest Field AND CenturyLink Field

<Daniel>

8. Art pieces such as Barbara Earl Thomas's "A Walk in the Neighborhood" were made publicly accessible during this event. This event was orchestrated by an organization who created characters such as "The Progress Preventer" and "Captain Bagspreader" in its Monster Madness post. This event coincided with the most recent wave of No Kings Protests, which happened on March 28. Merchandise commemorating this event includes socks with (*) green and blue polka dots and reversible bucket hats. YouTubers Miles in Transit and Trains Are Awesome traveled to Seattle to attend, for 10 points, what event which allowed passengers to travel from Lynnwood to Downtown Redmond by light rail?

ANSWER: opening of the Crosslake Connection [accept any answers indicating the connection of the 1 and 2 lines; accept any answers indicating the opening of Judkins Park or Mercer Island station]

<Marcus>

Ben, Adam and Sam? What are you guys doing in one of Seattle's many sister cities? For 10 points each:

[10m] In the New Zealand season, a challenge involved showing a plant tourist destinations in this city, including its International Antarctic Centre. The Washington Park Arboretum features a garden with species from the Southern Alps that was established as a symbol of Seattle's sisterhood with this city.

ANSWER: Christchurch [accept Ōtautahi]

[10h] Ben and Sam helplessly pass through this fifth-largest South Korean city during a game of snake, as they are unable to crash Adam who is also on their train. A park in Beacon Hill named for this sister city features a Korean style pagoda.

ANSWER: Daejeon

[10e] Ben and Adam win a season 17 challenge by observing over 40 macaques on Monkey Mountain, a hill in this island nation's sister city of Kaohsiung. Seattle is home to the United States' first tourism information center dedicated to this country.

ANSWER: Taiwan [accept Republic of China or Zhōnghuá Mínguó; reject "China"]

<Lucas>

9. The Seattle Promise has been in effect since 2018 between this system and the city of Seattle. Various components of this system are nationally accredited by the NWCCU. The three main components of this system are located in Riverview, Northgate, and Capitol Hill. That Capitol Hill location proudly displays a tagline out front, which states that it is (*) "one of the" followed by the name of this group. In the city of Seattle, this group is the main provider of dual-enrollment credits to high school students, known as "Running Start". For 10 points, what group consists of "North", "South", and "Central" learning institutions in Seattle?

ANSWER: Seattle Community Colleges District

<Anya>

Note to reader: Emphasize the first three words of the lead-in. Yummy yum yum! There sure is some pretty good food in Seattle. For 10 points each, answer the following about highly-rated restaurants on the writer's Beli:

[10h] Tamari Bar in Capitol Hill is the writer's third-highest ranked restaurant in Seattle. The restaurant's owners also sell this signature dish at Mariners games, calling it "Area 206" this.

ANSWER: Japanese curry

[10m] Outsider BBQ is the writer's fourth-highest ranked restaurant in Seattle. The restaurant is also on this Serious Eats chef and influencer's "Where [he] Eats in Seattle" list, which also includes Un Bien and Spice Waala.

ANSWER: J. Kenji López-Alt

[10e] This U District institution is the writer's second-highest ranked restaurant in Seattle. It is connected to a "Char-Burger" of the same name.

ANSWER: Aladdin Gyro-Cery and Deli

<Marcus>

10. A master-planned suburban housing development named Tehaleh is centered around its proximity to a feature with this English name. A Lowe's in Seattle's Atlantic neighborhood stands on a site whose longest tenant was an organization with this name. A sports team with this name currently plays on a high school campus at (*) Cheney Stadium in Tacoma. In SoDo, drivers heading south on I-5 and riders of the 1 Line see a building formerly belonging to an organization with this name, on top of which stands a large, stylized red letter. For 10 points, what name was lent to several local baseball teams by a brewing company named after a mountain that's often "out"?

ANSWER: Rainier [accept Mt. Rainier, or Seattle Rainiers, or Tacoma Rainiers, or Rainier Brewing Company; prompt on Giants or Purple Sox or Indians or Angels with "which name was that team known by for the longest time?"]

<Any>

Four-word-long phrases may be short, but they often carry a lot of meaning. For 10 points each:

[10m] This four-word phrase has been used many times by the University of Washington marketing team in reference to a landmark's visibility from the Rainier Vista.

ANSWER: The mountain is out

[10e] Three shrines were constructed by members of a 2020 movement with this four-word-long title. This movement was centered around Cal Anderson Park in a namesake autonomous zone.

ANSWER: Capitol Hill Occupied Protest [accept CHOP; prompt on Capitol Hill Autonomous Zone or CHAZ with "What was the movement?"]

[10h] Weirdly enough, this four-word phrase has never been said in the UW Quiz Bowl Discord server. This phrase, originated by Discord user arlo baes, is an admission of defeat.

ANSWER: Ting Gong, I surrender

<Marcus>

11. This man was voted as "most likely to succeed" by his classmates at Dominguez High School in Compton when he graduated in 2006. In an interview, this man said, "in my 24 years at life, I am better at life than you" to Skip Bayless; this man would go on to host the talk show Undisputed with Skip Bayless during the 23-24 NFL season. In his final season in the NFL, this man played just five games for the (*) Tampa Bay Buccaneers. A popular GIF features this football player with an anguished expression on his face in the wake of a very poor decision. After the 2013 NFC Championship Game, this Seahawk famously delivered the line, "don't try me with a sorry receiver like Crabtree!" For 10 points, what cornerstone of the Legion of Boom was a cornerback who wore jersey number 25?

ANSWER: Richard Sherman

<Any>

The circlejerk subreddit for this peak's most popular post is this peak seen from this peak. For 10 points each, answer some questions about trails within King County.

[10m] The notoriously difficult old and slightly easier new version of this trail are both still hiked with the titular object atop the mountain.

ANSWER: Mailbox Peak

[10h] Also in the North Bend area, a lake with this name also has an easier hike up the "ridge" where people can look down onto the lake whose north side used to contain the town of Moncton.

ANSWER: Rattlesnake Ledge Trail (Accept Rattlesnake Ridge; Accept Rattlesnake Lake)

[10e] If you want to stay in Seattle perhaps you could walk the paved perimeter of this park named for a United States Secretary. In 2022, Joe Biden visited this park to sign an executive order for inventorying old and mature-growth trees for conservation.

ANSWER: Seward Park

<Gavin>

12. This person auditioned for "America's Got Talent" with the original rap "Guns Down," and received a Golden Buzzer from Chris Hardwick in a later round. In addition to being the first woman to have her jersey retired at Marietta's Sprayberry High School, this person was the first woman selected to compete at the Iverson Classic 24K Showcase. This 2023 SEC Freshman of the Year (*) averaged 19 points per game during her last March Madness before this player's team was eliminated by Duke in the Sweet 16. This player was the 8th overall pick in the 2026 WNBA Draft by the Golden State Valkyries before being traded an hour later. For 10 points, name this rapper and LSU shooting guard, who now plays for the Seattle Storm.

ANSWER: Flau'jae Johnson [accept either underlined portion; accept Big Feaux; accept Big 4; accept Category 4 Storm; accept Rainmaker; accept Rainstorm; accept Flying B]

<Simarya>

I was struggling to come up with something to write about so I shut my eyes and moved the map around and clicked randomly and I landed on Issaquah. For 10 points each, learn the only three things there are to see in Issaquah.

[10m] The Cougar Mountain Zoo and Poo Poo Point are both technically in Issaquah, unfortunately. These attractions are part of what small mountain range containing Cougar, Squak, Tiger, Taylor, and Rattlesnake Ridge?

ANSWER: Issaquah Alps [prompt on Cascades by saying "even smaller"]

[10h] Near Poo Poo Point is Issaquah High School, where I played baseball one time in grade 10. This is incredibly stupid, but there's a 14-foot-tall troll made out of recycled wood just standing in the woods outside the school. Our opponents insisted this troll was the coolest thing in the city of Issaquah.

ANSWER: Jakob Two Trees

[10e] Issaquah city limits also contain this large park with a wonderful beach, named after a lake to the north that Issaquah Creek drains into.

ANSWER: Lake Sammamish State Park

<Anya>

13. In a short film inspired by this object, Tyler’s encounter with this object gives him the courage to ask his coworker on a date, during which he leaves to use this object and subsequently vanishes into smoke. A 2002 article about this object in the Stranger noted “Terror triumphs as chaos reigns, and [this object] is possessed by Satan himself” after recounting the effect of spending $5 on this object. The note (*) ‘Went for a walk’ was left behind after this device’s disappearance, which occurred the same year that the Seattle sugary drink tax went into effect, causing this device to raise its price to $1. For 10 points, what machine dispensed unusual soda flavors until its 2018 removal from its namesake Seattle neighborhood.

ANSWER: Capitol Hill Mystery Soda Machine [or Capitol Hill Mystery Vending Machine, prompt on partial]

<Euan>

Let’s test your street smarts! For 10 points each:

[10e] The vast majority of streets and walkways on the UW campus are named after these things, examples of which include Snohomish and Wahkiakum. Whitman Court was originally named after one of these things before being renamed to Little Canoe Channel.

ANSWER: counties of Washington

[10m] The ordering of twelve streets in Downtown Seattle is remembered using this mnemonic device. This mnemonic consolidates pairs of streets starting with the same letter and is six words long.

ANSWER: Jesus Christ Made Seattle Under Protest [accept answers using Julius Caesar in place of Jesus Christ; accept answers using under protest or utterly perfect in place of under pressure]

[10h] In this city, Aberdeen, Blaine, and Camas begin the pattern of avenues named after places in Washington in alphabetical order. The pattern reaches Whitman Avenue before restarting at Anacortes Avenue, both of which are in this city.

ANSWER: Renton

<Marcus>

14. A fake highway in this town connects trails named Parachute and Wildside. Keechelus Lake and the community of Hyak lie at the eastern end of this town. This town is located where the Iron Horse Trail and the Pacific Crest Trail intersect. This westernmost town in Kittitas County contains areas called West, Central, East, and (*) Alpentel. Along with Stevens and White, this town is located at one of three year-round crossings of the Cascades in Washington. This town shares part of its name with a native people, a large river, and a town further to the west that contains a 270-foot waterfall. For 10 points, what town, which lies where I-90 traverses the Cascades, contains the most-visited ski resort in the state of Washington?

ANSWER: Snoqualmie Pass

<Any>

Can I swim at the Cut? For 10 points each:

[10m] The construction of the Montlake Cut had devastating consequences for the environment. Lake Washington's resulting decrease in level almost completely dried up this discharge channel that once connected it to the Duwamish River.

ANSWER: Black River

[10h] The Cut hosts a number of boating events, including this yearly crew regatta named after a local real estate agency.

ANSWER: Windermere Cup

[10e] The Windermere Cup has been held annually since 1987, when the first edition was won by a team from this nation. Notably, a large statue dedicated to the first head of state of this nation can be found in Fremont.

ANSWER: Soviet Union

<Any>

15. This man represented Washington's 48th Congressional District in the state House of Representatives from 1973 to 1976. This man once said about Southcenter Mall: "the light blue and pink hair curlers, the shoes that flop, flop, flop along – it's a completely different customer." About this man, Nick Hanauer once said "he's on the (*) wrong side of every important civic issue." This man's father funded construction of the Overlake Medical Center, but his grandfather argued for a "white man's Pacific coast" and developed strawberry farms taken from interned Japanese residents into malls. For 10 points, what billionaire is one of the primary drivers of the opposition to light rail in Bellevue?

ANSWER: Kemper Freeman, Jr.

<Any>

Imagine that it was not a good day. I am of course referring to Ice Cube mentioning that the Lakers beat the SuperSonics on his good day, but let's look back on the good times for Seattle's NBA team. For 10 points each:

[10h] This year was the only NBA championship win in franchise history.

ANSWER: 1979

[10m] Although called Climate Pledge now, the SuperSonics played at this stadium.

ANSWER: Key Arena

[10e] This Hall of Famer nicknamed "the glove" is arguably one of the most famous SuperSonics players. This Point Guard was the only Defensive Player of the Year winner until Marcus Smart in 2022 who has given so many turnovers as I write this can my Lakers not throw a 3-0 lead to the Rockets.

ANSWER: Gary Payton (Do NOT accept Gary Payton II)

<Gavin>

16. A recent anniversary party for this organization at Massive Nightclub required attendees to sign an NDA. This organization was created due to fallout from a workplace relationship leading the founder to leave the Seattle Stranger. Collaborating with MorePerfectUnion, this organization reported on “how states are cracking down on billionaire greed”. The sole owner of this news organization often opens with the tagline “reporter in Seattle without a (*) boss”. For 10 points, what “highly informed, slightly unhinged leftwing journalism” organization is run by Hannah Krieg?

ANSWER: The Burner (prompt on Hannah Krieg before mention)

<Gavin>

Answer the following about the Seattle area’s Jewish community. For 10 points each:

[10e] This affluent suburb is around 25% Jewish, one of the highest proportions of Jewish residents in the region. This city is connected to Seattle by the Homer M. Hadley and Lacey V. Murrow bridges.

ANSWER: Mercer Island

[10m] This neighborhood’s eruv covers the largest concentration of Orthodox Jews within Seattle. This neighborhood’s namesake park occupies the entire Bailey peninsula.

ANSWER: Seward Park

[10h] Seattle’s first Sephardic inhabitants found work in this industry. Sol Amon, one of Pike Place’s last remaining Sephardic vendors, still sells products of this industry.

ANSWER: Fishing [or seafood; accept equivalents]

<Sasha>

17. When this person was eleven years old, a security guard asked for their autograph at a St. John’s University basketball game. In their elementary school yearbook, this person’s potential careers included doctor and lawyer. This person and their partner became the first queer couple to co-host the ESPYs and was part of the “TASSK Force” at the (*) University of Connecticut in 1998. This woman is the most accomplished Olympian of either gender in her sport, winning her fifth gold medal in 2020 alongside Diana Taurasi. In July 2025, this woman was commemorated with a statue outside of Climate Pledge Arena. For 10 points, name this recently split partner of Megan Rapinoe and Seattle Storm icon.

ANSWER: Sue Bird

<Marcus>

For 10 points each, answer the following questions about Katie Wilson.

[10h] Wilson was described as this by the Daily Mail in response to her announcement of bus lanes on Denny Way for route 8.

ANSWER: White female Mamdani

[10e] Wilson defeated what incumbent Seattle mayor, who was elected in 2021 and had previously served for 5 days in 2017?

ANSWER: Bruce Harrell

[10m] Wilson is the founder and executive director of what activist organization created in 2011, which lobbied the county for the creation of a low-income fare in 2015?

ANSWER: Transit Riders Union

<Maia>

18. The first Catholic governor west of the Mississippi has named both a former and current portion of this roadway. Unfinished construction at this road's western end led to the installation of the art piece "Gate to Nowhere". One pedestrian bridge spanning this road is boxed in by metal panels painted various shades of green; a longer one is covered by a (*) tent and displays flowers in planters. Those pedestrian bridges were largely funded by a corporation in Overlake that contributes to this road's notable lack of a "reverse commute". For 10 points, what road beginning in Seattle crosses the longest floating bridge in the world and serves Microsoft campus in Redmond?

ANSWER: SR-520 [accept anything referring to Washington State Route 520, even if just the number is mentioned; DO NOT accept or prompt on "I-520"; prompt on the Governor Albert D. Rossellini Floating Bridge or the Evergreen Point Floating Bridge with "what road does that bridge carry?"]

<Anya>

19. In 2013, a Boeing employee assaulted this being at an event ironically organized for public safety. This being was reprimanded by Sound Transit security for his unsafe photo-op at Sound Transit's Crosslake Connection event. Despite only being six years old at the time, this being was the vice presidential candidate for a presidential ticket promoted by Nike. Thousands called for this being's death soon after his introduction in 1990, and nearly got their wish when he crashed into a wall at the (*) Kingdome and broke his angle. This being nearly hit and injured outfielder Coco Crisp in 2007, when the latter didn't notice this being riding on an ATV around the opposing team's dugout. This being wears jersey number 00 for his team, which is coincidentally the amount of hope you should have while watching them play. For 10 points, name this alliterative mascot of Seattle's MLB team, a member of the genus Alces.

ANSWER: Mariner Moose

<Catherine>